Mitch-

I hope you got this invitation? When they told me about this a few weeks back- I told them, more than me, they must invite you but more importantly go to your office and brief you or your staff. I hope they did that. I believe it is like a $200 million project and a big deal.

Thank You,

Hey David.

Hope things are well. We're having our groundbreaking ceremony next Thursday (10-11am) for our new HPMC patient tower. We sent your deputy an invite for you to attend, but there hasn't been a response from your office. In any event, Dr. Cha and his family from Korea will be there. Let me know if you can make it.

Regards,

Peter

Hi Mitch - I hope all is well with you!

Just a quick shout out - this is a great idea and I really hope that it comes to fruition! As you probably know, Judge Schrader, for whom this street is named, was David Bohnett's long time partner. Randy was a tireless crusader for those whom society had shunned and ignored and I am sure that he'd be totally supportive of this effort.

Keep us posted and do let us know if we can be of assistance. (And it's been way too long - let me know if you'd like to grab lunch or a cup of coffee some day!)

Best,

Michael.

Hollywood parking lot considered for homeless shelter

A city-owned parking lot on Schrader Boulevard in Hollywood may be used as an emergency shelter for homeless individuals under a motion introduced on April 20 by Councilman Mitch O'Farrell, 13th District.

Councilman Mitch O'Farrell's proposal calls for temporary bridge housing for homeless individuals to be located in a parking lot on Schrader Boulevard in Hollywood. (photo by Edwin Folven)

The proposal calls for trailers to be located at the site for three years to house people while permanent units are built. Known as bridge housing, the trailers will provide shelter and will be staffed by case workers who will link occupants with services such as health care, substance abuse and mental health counseling, and employment training programs. O'Farrell said 24-hour security would monitor the site, and program managers would be there at all times.

"It will provide up to 100 beds for people who will then be called formerly homeless individuals," O'Farrell said. "It's getting people into housing immediately."

The idea for the temporary shelter in Hollywood comes on the heels of a plan to do the same near the El Pueblo de Los Angeles Historic Monument and Olvera Street. Council members in all 15 districts are looking for similar spaces to house unsheltered people after Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti announced a program last week in which the city will provide extra funding for services in districts that create shelters.

O'Farrell said he was already working to identify sites for bridge housing, as well as locations for permanent accommodations. The parking lot at 1533 N. Schrader Blvd. is between Sunset Boulevard and Selma Avenue and is operated by the Los Angeles Department of Transportation. In addition to private spaces for occupants, the emergency shelter would have places where people could store their belongings – a critical component in getting them to accept housing.

Kerry Morrison, executive director of the Hollywood Property Owners Alliance, said homelessness has reached the crisis level and something needs to be done to get people indoors until housing funded by Measure HHH is finished.

"I don't see how we could not support it. It's really sad to see the situation people are experiencing," Morrison said. "The shelter is intended to be a bridge to a permanent solution. People are not going to languish in that shelter. It's a place to stabilize people so they can be engaged with the outreach teams."

Ferris Wehbe, a longtime Hollywood resident and vice chair of the Central Hollywood Neighborhood Council, also supports the emergency shelter proposals.

"I think doing something like this is not only needed, it will be very important in starting to tackle the homeless situation," Wehbe said. "It will help reduce the encampments and provide resources for these folks."

One goal of the mayor's plan is to address encampments that have sprung up throughout the city. Once the shelters are in place, the city plans to remove the encampments and clean the sidewalks more frequently. More funding will also be dedicated to outreach teams that contact homeless individuals on the streets and attempt to link them with services.

Brian Folb, owner of Paramount Contractors and Developers, a property owner and property management company with buildings throughout Hollywood, said he is on board with the emergency shelter plan. His offices are located just south of the parking lot on Schrader Boulevard.

"You have to start taking steps to assess the situation and get people into places where it can be addressed," Folb said. "It's a problem that is not going to be solved unless everyone makes sacrifices and takes steps to address it in any way they can."

The proposal next goes for consideration by the council's Homelessness and Poverty Committee. The full Los Angeles City Council would be required to approve the plan, and the public can weigh in every step of the way. O'Farrell said he hopes the shelter can be in place as early as late summer.

"We need to duplicate this across the city," O'Farrell added.

Hi Mitch -
Hope you are well!
So much going on this year and the world is upside down!

I am applying for the CEO of Hollywood Chamber job. As you konw, I live, work, and play in Hollywood, and my family goes back 100 years here.
I love what's happening -- the people, places, and things to do -- and all the work we have seen toward improvement in the past 10 years.
I love to see a thriving business community, and our history celebrated, and all of the good people doing good things in the business and non profit sectors.
I want to continue to be part of the positive changes happening in our community.

I hope I can use you as a reference for my application and interview with the search committee. Let me know your thoughts?

Talk soon and thanks in advance -- and would love to get any advice you have.

Dinner soon -- getting something on the calendar.

All the best --
